

ANT107 : Introduction to Anthropology

This is an introduction to the principles and procedures of anthropology. The course is divided into two main areas: Physical Anthropology, which covers the physical nature of humans and the evolution of this nature; and Cultural Anthropology, which covers the cultural nature of humans including the origin and development of social institutions.

Credits 3

Prerequisites

None

Semester Offered

Fall

Spring

Notes

Satisfies a Behavioral and Social Sciences general education requirement.