

ENL150 : World Mythologies

Students study myths from the great cultures of the world. Through readings, discussions, research projects and presentations, students explore the universal values conveyed by these stories from different world cultures. Students discover the symbolism in the events and details of these stories, and they understand mythmaking as a primary human activity.

Credits 3

Prerequisite Courses

ENL101: English Composition I

Semester Offered

Spring

odd years

Notes

Satisfies a Humanities & Fine Arts general education requirement.