

ENL217 : Exploring the World of Science Fiction

Exploring the World of Science Fiction is a course that provides students the opportunity to read, discuss, and write about the genre of science fiction in literature. Texts include short stories, poetry, novels, film, and nonfiction. Emphasis is given to reading and analysis of the genre of science fiction and its influence on society and literature.

Credits 3

Prerequisite Courses

ENL102: English Composition II

Semester Offered

Spring/even

Notes

Satisfies a Humanities & Fine Arts general education requirement.