

LGS134 : Real Estate, Mortgages and Landlord-Tenant Law

This course is a study of the law of real property with special emphasis on both substantive law and practical considerations including drafting of real estate contracts and documents, title examinations, and an understanding of the mortgage lending field. Particular attention is given to the skills needed by paralegals including closing documents.

Credits 3

Prerequisite Courses

LGS130: Introduction to Substantive Law

Semester Offered

Spring (odd years)