

BUS112 : Organizational Behavior

Students acquire the skills required to successfully evaluate their behavior in organizational settings. Students analyze how each person within an organization effects an organization and how an organization effects each person. Group/team dynamics are explored in order to see their effect on group and individual performance. Issues that impact the success of an organization are studied. Tools appropriate for accomplishing dynamic change, breaking communication barriers, resolving conflicts, improving leadership skills, and inspiring motivation and collaboration are explored.

Credits 3

Prerequisites

ENL108: Critical Reading & Thinking or satisfactory basic skills assessment score

Semester Offered

Varies